DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-2 and 4-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over JP '388 in view of Korean Patent Publication No. 2002-045110.

JP '388 discloses a damper assembly of a glove box (B1), comprising: a fixing member 1 (Figures 1-2) fixed to the rear part of the glove box (Figure 4) inherently by screws (not shown, but capable of passing through two holes, best seen in Figure 1), the fixing member 1 having a fitting protrusion 4 formed unitarily and in one piece with the fixing member at one side of the fixing member; and a damper 2 having a fitting piece 7 extending from one exterior side thereof, the fitting protrusion being rotationally fitted in the fitting piece of the damper so that the damper is fixed to the fixing member.

The damper assembly further comprises a main body of the fixing member 1 having a substantially rectangular prismatic shape and being formed integrally with the one side with which the fixing member is formed; and one planar support brace (not numbered) formed integrally with the fixing member and orthogonal to both the one side of the fixing member and the substantially rectangular prismatic shape of the main body of the fixing member. The damper is an air damper configured to contain air in an interior of the damper.

JP '388 lack the fixing member and damper being made of a plastic material.

Korean Patent Publication No. 2002-045110 discloses a fixing member (such as plate 7) for a damper for a glove box as well as the damper itself being made of a plastic material.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have provided the fixing member and damper of JP '388 out of a plastic material as taught by Korean Patent Publication No. 2002-045110 in order to decrease tolerance distribution and thus instability of the glove box and further to reduce manufacturing costs of the damper assembly.

JP '388, as modified, lacks a plurality of substantially planar support braces.

It has been held that mere duplication of the essential working parts of a device involves only routine skill in the art. Duplication of the one planar support brace of JP '388, as modified, such that a plurality of support braces are present would require only routine skill in the art and provide additional structural support for the damper assembly.

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claims 7-8 are allowed.
4. Claim 3 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-3 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
